Snowy Weather Causes 10 Car Accident

Updated: Jan 21, 2008 06:13 PM CST

1 person taken to hospital with non-life threatening injuries; 8 treated at the scene.

Travel on I-90 westbound was at a standstill for more than an hour Monday.

Snowy weather and slippery roads cause a 10 car accident on I-90 Monday afternoon.

The accident happened around 2:30 pm. According to Tri-State Ambulance, 10 cars were involved. One person was taken to the hospital with non-life threatening injuries. Eight people were treated at the scene for minor injuries.

Emergency crews had to close the westbound and eastbound lanes of traffic. Both lanes were reopened about an hour later, but traffic was still moving slow.

Emergency crews are reminding people, if you have to travel take it slow and use caution. Stay tuned to NewsChannel 8 and WKBT.com for the latest on the weather and updates on travel problems.
